Girls in Africa often drop out of school due to missing many weeks each year because they don't have menstrual hygiene management supplies, or a way to carry them back and forth to school. Sew Powerful is an organization that collects purses (from a specific pattern), sewn by women around the world so girls will go to school. To learn more, go to sewpowerful.org, and see how these purses are helping keep girls in school and lift them out of poverty by enabling them to get an education. We will cut out and sew this purse together step-by-step. You will need a sewing machine, fabric and basic sewing supplies. Saturday, March 10, 9AM-5PM at HUUF.
