

Sunday Services

June 5 – 11 a.m. Milestone Sunday – Jillian Mooney – director of Religious Education

We celebrate our religious education program for children and youth, including honoring our teachers and staff and recognizing the special “milestones,” graduations and accomplishments of our young people as they pass particular markers on the journeys of their lives.

June 12 – 11 a.m. What do we know about Ramadan? – Rev. Bryan Jessup and Imam Jamila Tharp

In the West, the religion of Islam often finds itself under attack because of violence done in its name. Just as in the Middle East, Americans often find themselves under attack because of violence done in the name of American capitalism. It might be good if people from both regions got to know one another and refused to let extremists define them.

June 19 – 11 a.m. Father’s Day: What being a father has taught me – Rev. Bryan Jessup

In this service, several fathers and grandfathers from the congregation will reflect on what fatherhood (and grandfatherhood) has taught them about life.

June 26 – 11 a.m. Paths to Mindfulness: On Retreat in the Middle of Chaos – Bonnie MacGregor and Berti Welti

As the political campaigns add frenzy and tension to the complexity of our lives, how can we stay attuned to our true selves and core values? Each of us has creative and skillful ways that help us stay sane and happy in crazy times. Over the summer we will explore practices that help us remain truly present in each moment – with the potential for transforming our lives and those around us. We will introduce this summer's theme and get a taste of the programs to come.
