- 6 Labor Day and Honoring the Gifts We've Been Given – Every person in the world brings something worthwhile to share. Each of us is responsible for developing the gifts we've been given and for helping to create a world where each one's contributions are honored in a way that allows them to live with dignity. – Rev. Bryan Jessup, speaking
- 13 Gathering of the Waters – Berti Welty, Leading the service.
- 20 Generosity as a Spiritual Practice – Ruth Broderick, Leading the service
- 27 Experiencing Beloved Community – The theme, chosen by our Board, for our congregation this year is "Building Beloved Community." As we gather together to create health, meaning and depth in our own lives, and as we gather together to help create increasing justice in the world, the support and company of one another is valuable beyond words. Each step of the way we discover, we are not alone. – Rev. Bryan Jessup, speaking
